—“And the end thereof is victory and eternal life.”

That the memories of the past may not be lost in the dreams of the future, we offer this, the thirteenth volume of the Quaker. It is our hope that its reflections will serve to forestay old age just a little longer and to make future recollections of this college year just a little bit clearer. * * John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress has been chosen as our theme because its spirit exemplifies that in which Guilford is climbing toward her Centennial. * * * * *

C O N T E N T S

GUILFORD COLLEGE is a living monument to the progressive educational spirit of the Quakers in the Southeast. During a period of ninety-five years Guilford College has won for herself a loyal group of alumni, former students, faculty and administrative officers. Guilford's history is distinctive in the South; the early adoption of co-educational principles and the uninterrupted continuity of her service during the most trying experiences of this section of the country give her a unique and rich heritage.

It is the aim of Guilford College to be a distinctive liberal arts college by carefully selecting its 300 students and by efficiently administering a significant curriculum. Student selection for Guilford College is to be on the basis of scholarship, character, personality and a definite desire for a liberal arts education. The curriculum is like those toward which the progressive colleges of this country are now working. By a series of carefully planned syllabi this academic work is all integrated into a unity which transcends the usual departmental mindedness of the conventional college. Arrangements are being made whereby the student may accomplish this work as rapidly as his ability and initiative will permit.

Nature has richly endowed the Guilford campus with beauty. This challenges the progressive spirit of Guilfordians to plan for the Guilford College of the immediate future, buildings, athletic facilities and landscaping, which are essential for the program and in absolute harmony with the natural setting.

The builders of the Centennial program must create an emerging plan to meet present problems and conditions, and to capitalize the vitality of the past, as well as to dedicate to the future, students adequately equipped with balance of judgment, depth of insight and richness of Christian character,

"Christian before the cross loses his burden."

TO the success of the Centennial, to the future of this institution, to a greater Guilford, we dedicate this, the thirteenth volume of the Quaker; and we, the staff, wish to thank Dean Clyde A. Milner for his explanation of the Centennial and to in some way bespeak the appreciation due him for his contributions in the formulation of the program to the success of which we dedicate this book.

The Student Affairs Board

DAVID H. PARSONS, JR. . . . . President
JOHN H. WILLIAMS . . . . . Secretary

The creation of the Student Affairs Board grew out of a feeling that a general clearing house was needed on Guilford campus for the affairs of the many organizations of the college. There had been a general tendency toward the overlapping of functions, interests, and directorates, out of which condition a council of representatives from all organizations seemed to give the most logical relief. And so, on this assumption, the Student Affairs Board was formed in 1928.

This board has control of the finances of all organizations on the campus. It conducts the campus elections each spring, supervises and administers a point system for extra-curricula activities, and now, through a newly formed social committee, directs the social life and activities of the school.

Women's Student Government

The Young Women's Student Government Association was first established at Guilford College in 1927. The Women's Student Council, consisting of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the organization, the presidents of the two women's dormitories and two representatives of each of the four classes, heads the organization. The Council has been successful generally in increasing participation in student government on the part of the women students as well as adequately meeting the disciplinary situations. It has been valuable in creating a spirit of co-operation among the women students which it is impossible to obtain without student participation in affairs.

The Council of the organization of the Women's Student Government, in conjunction with the Men's Student Council in 1930, was responsible for considerable revision of the rules of the college. Since 1930 the Honor System, concerning conduct and conformity to the regulations of the college, has been in force, and through the recognition of her responsibility, each woman student contributes to the success of the organization.

The women students appreciate the leadership of Miss Jewell Conrad as president of the Association for 1932-1933, who with the aid of Mrs. Ernestine C. Milner has definitely contributed to the development and success of the Women's Student Government Association.

The Student Council is made up of two members from each class. Its purpose is to promote a good spirit among the students, to see that the rules under which the honor system operate are honored and respected, and to deal justly in cases where there seems to be a violation of the system. The system has proven quite successful during the past year. Very few cases have been brought up, and most of those were of minor importance.

To give help or advice to any student that is in need of it is another function of the group. Under the leadership of the president, open forums are held from time to time in which student problems are brought up and met.

The Guilford College Dramatic Council was organized in 1921 to give opportunity to those interested to produce, stage, and act in dramatic productions. Since its organization, the Council has presented at least two major productions each year. They have ranged in type from the heaviest tragedies of Shakespeare to such light comedies as "Skidding" and "It Won't Be Long Now." Fortunately the casts have been sufficiently large in each case to allow a representative group of students the advantages of working in them.

The fall play of this year marked a new experiment of the Council. Channing Pollock's powerful war drama, "The Enemy," was produced and staged entirely under the student direction of David Parsons and Harris Moore. This is the first time in the history of the Council that a play has been produced by students entirely; but the splendid reception given the production bespeaks the success of the young producers as well as the ability of the cast in depicting the several attitudes which people hold on the subject of war.

The financial return from the two yearly productions is expended by the Council in improving production facilities of the college and in building up a library of plays for reading and to facilitate in the selection of those for production.

Membership to the Council is closely restricted by a point system of membership requirements which limits membership strictly to persons interested in dramatics and to those who have done some constructive work on at least three major productions. Positions are filled by election from those eligible under the point system.

The Debates Council

For several years, debating, once one of the outstanding activities at Guilford, has been shadowed by a degree of inactivity. This year a new debating council was organized in an effort to again place debating in a higher place in the college's life. This group was made up of one representative from each class. Professor Newlin is faculty advisor to the organization.

The first work of the new council was the planning and direction of class debates. Considerable interest was generated by a couple of hotly contested battles, the first of which brought a victory for the Juniors over the Senior team, and the second ended with the Freshmen victorious over the Sophomores. Besides the interest engendered thereby, these debates have proven themselves valuable to the intercollegiate debaters since the same query was used in the class debates as is being used as the national subject this year.

The schedule of intercollegiate debates includes two debates with Campbell College, dual debates with Lenoir-Rhyne College, High Point College, and Elon College, and single debates with Birmingham-Southern College, Lynchburg College, and Furman University.

Y. M. C. A.

In 1880 the first Y. M. C. A. was organized at Guilford College. Robert C. Root was the first president and Dr. E. C. Perisho was the corresponding secretary. It was established because of a need felt for an organization that would provide spiritual growth and training for leadership.

The present Y. M. C. A. Hall was constructed in 1891. Throughout the history of the college the Y. M. C. A. has been a dominant influence in the spiritual and social life of the campus.

Among the recent developments in Y. M. C. A. work are the sponsoring of School of Missions, Sunday school, Religious Emphasis Week, campus socials, and joint meetings with the Y. W. C. A. The high light of 1933 has been the organization of deputation teams. These teams, composed of students, have visited many localities in both North Carolina and Virginia. Thus more than ever before the Y. M. C. A. is fulfilling, both on the campus and off, the purposes for which it was founded.

Y. W. C. A.

Purpose: "To realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God, to have a part in making this life possible for all people, and to seek to understand and follow Jesus in this task."

The Y. W. C. A. of Guilford College this year celebrated its twenty-sixth anniversary, having received its charter October 10, 1906. This makes the organization on our campus one year older than the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.

During the years of its existence, this organization has been one of the most active on the campus. In its early years it took the initiative in directing the social life of the college. It was the first organization to sponsor plays, and it was largely through its influence that the Dramatic Council came into being.

Headed by Ethel Swaim, a capable and enthusiastic leader, the Y. W. C. A. has this year done very constructive work. As its usual functions, the Y. W., aided by the Y. M. C. A., has sponsored "Freshman Week," planned and directed the Opening Reception, and provided for many other social activities for the college. It has this year launched two additional projects of note—the carrying on of deputation work and the organization of a Girl Reserve Club at the Guilford College High School.

Every young woman of the college may become a member of the Y. W. C. A. by pledging herself to its purpose.

This year marks the thirteenth edition of the college yearbook, THE QUAKER. It has been its purpose during these years to preserve for the future events and friendships in the memories of student years here at Guilford; and for that reason each year pictorial records are made of the students, faculty, organizations, and athletics which have made up the life of the college for that period.

The officers of the organization are elected from the student body at the regular campus election held by the Student Affairs Board. The staff is completed by the officers. Although laboring under a tremendous handicap, that of a debt created by the 1928 book, along with current financial reverses, THE QUAKER appears this year, small, but backed financially.

The first Guilfordian was published October 14, 1914. In an editorial Kathryn Dorsett, editor-in-chief, said: "From The Guilford Collegian, an inadequate monthly magazine, there has evolved a weekly organ which will seek to fill its proper function as a college publication."

Aiming toward improvement, minor changes have been made in the paper from time to time. It is now a semi-monthly publication. Larger sheets, larger type, better paper, and new features characterized the improved newspaper.

In the face of many handicaps Editor Greene and Business Manager Jamieson have succeeded in reducing the indebtedness of the paper considerably this year. Voicing undiluted sentiment and news of the campus, The Guilfordian has become a vital organ in this institution.

The A Capella Choir

The Guilford College A Capella choir made its initial appearance in 1929 as a combination of the two previous Glee Club organizations. The organization was the first of its nature in the South. Since its inception the choir has made remarkable progress and is now recognized as one of the finest musical organizations of the South.

The choir has come in contact with thousands of people each year, both in and out of North Carolina. The major concerts given this year number nearly thirty, including those given in Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., Atlantic City, N. J., Philadelphia, Pa., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and many points between.

The leadership of the choir influenced the organization of the State Choir Festival held in Raleigh, N. C., on April 5th when over five hundred members of church choirs met for a mass chorus concert of the best church anthems. The choir was also instrumental in bringing the grade and high school choirs of Guilford County to Guilford College on April 6th for an outdoor concert.

Probably no organization gives as thorough training in spiritual, musical, and character-building values as does the Guilford College choir. In it are embodied the possibilities of real musical experience for Guilford College students. May it live on as a vital part of the student life at Guilford.

Football

Although the 1932 Quaker Football Team cannot be termed an outstanding success from the standpoint of games won and lost, it did at times show flashes of brilliance and always gave a creditable account of itself from the standpoint of sportsmanship and Quaker "fight." In looking back over the gridiron season we find that the majority of the defeats were so by a small margin, the difference between victory being that certain "something" which determines championship play. In defeating High Point and Elon in the conference the team gave all loyal Guilfordians something to be proud of and something on which to base future expectations.

In the opening game of the season the Quakers, after less than three weeks' training, fought Emory and Henry on equal terms, but succumbed 7-0, failing to take advantage of their scoring opportunities. Jamieson showed pre-season brilliance on runs and distinguished himself by a 71-yard punt. Captain Wellons rehurt an old injury and was lost to the team till the latter part of the year.

The next encounter was with the aviators of Langley Field, Virginia. Guilford showed an excellent defense and early offense, but the weight advantage predominated and allowed the flyers to push over two touchdowns in the second half. Turner, Rudisill, and Watkins were outstanding. Another misfortune crippled the Quakers; Allen Johnson, promising freshman end, was lost for the rest of the season as a result of a leg injury.

Returning to Tar Heel soil, the Quakers were defeated by a strong team from Randolph-Macon in the Greensboro Stadium 12-0. It was a good game throughout. The larger, more experienced Virginia team, boasting of such stars as Hess and Delotto, was pushed to the limit in eking out two touchdowns on a long run and 30-yard pass. Finch, Wilkie, and Riley looked good, but the whole squad showed wonderful spirit. Injury still took its toll; this time Johnny Burgwyn, scrappy guard, was hurt and forced to stay out for several weeks.

THE 1933 QUAKER

The following week saw the Quakers invade the camp of the William and Mary Indians, conquerors the previous week of Navy, and so far out of Guilford's class as to make it appear pure suicide. Pallesse, Chalko, Halligan, et al. of the Braves did what was expected and won 47-0. Not without a struggle, however, for the boys from the Quaker College in North Carolina fought and didn't know the word "quit." They deserve much credit and commendation for their work in keeping the score down even to where it was.

A crippled team outplayed and outgained the Maroon team of Roanoke College, but inability to capitalize on the advantage lost the game 6-0. Guilford made ten first downs to opponents four, but couldn't come through with a tally, although practically the entire game was played in enemy territory. Bob Jamieson played his usual stellar game, while Bouton looked good in the line.

In the first conference encounter Coach Anderson presented a team that lacked nothing, and the smooth-working Quaker steam roller rolled over High Point 45-0. Lateral passes, reverses, end runs, fakes and forwards all worked to perfection. The entire Guilford eleven looked like a million dollars; and if there were any individual stars, Rasely, Biddle, and Turner deserve the mention.

With spirits high, the Quakers met the Catawba Indians on foreign territory and suffered their first conference reverse 20-7. Witmer, opposing quarterback, was the big shot in the Catawba victory, for his bullet passes to Robinson accounted for every one of their touchdowns and the majority of their gains. Guiltord tied the score in the third quarter on a short end run by Jamieson, but Witmer came right back to toss two more passes for touchdowns and Indian victory. It was a good game and a tough one to lose.

Journeying to Hickory, the Quakers met the best team in the conference, and succumbed 20-0 after holding Lenoir Rhyne scoreless during the first half. Two reverse plays and a long pass accounted for the Mountain Bear scores. Though Guiltord threatened seriously several times, they lacked the necessary final punch. Newman distinguished himself with a 60-yard dash, while Jamieson and Finch came through with nice gains.

As a warm-up to the Thanksgiving Elon game, the Quakers held field day against E. C. T. C., and romped off with twelve touchdowns and a total of 79 points to opponents' zero. Scoring at will, the Guilford backfield took turns carrying the ball across, Jamieson, Finch, and Norman coming out ahead in this respect. Bullock deserves credit for his scrappy game at quarterback for the losers.

Thanksgiving Day the Quakers fulfilled Guilford prayers of two years' standing—Beat Elon! It was a gala occasion in which the Crimson and Gray did it up in big style, 24-6, with thrills galore. Three touchdowns came as the result of passes, the Turner-Newman combination registering a couple and the other from a spectacular 50-yard heave from Wilkies into the hands of Jamieson. Norman stepped through the line, shook off several tacklers, and went 28 yards for the other score. Harry Wellons and Bob Jamieson, playing their last game, performed nicely, while Burgwyn and Norman also starred. For Elon, Latham and Newsome were outstanding.

Next year should be a big year for the Quakers. Coach Anderson will lose only three lettermen—Jamieson, Wellons, and Newlin—and with the return of fifteen veterans and several promising subs should build a very formidable machine. As a result of his dependable work of the past two years, Johnny Burgwyn was elected to lead the 1933 gridders.

B A S K E T B A L L , 1 9 3 3

The basketball season opened this year with only three veterans on hand, Captain Jamieson, Purnell, and Milner; and consequently the Quaker cagemen found the going rather tough. Nevertheless, they managed to hang up several victories during the season, and twice spurted to the lead in the race for Conference honors.

The Quakers opened their season January 5, with a game against Carolina and were smothered under a 66 to 9 defeat by the strong University quintet. Three more non-Conference games followed in which Guilford defeated High Point Y. M. C. A. and lost to Winston-Salem "Y" and the Yadkinville "All Stars" by scant margins of one and two points.

The Guilford team got off to a good start in the Conference race by winning four of the first five games they played. Playing their first loop contests of the season on a two-day western trip, they broke even and brought back a victory over Appalachian and a defeat from Lenoir-Rhyne. Then, three days later, Guilford scalped the Catawba Indians by a score of 36 to 32 and, as a result of the victory, took the lead in the North State Circuit.

The Quakers met some big teams on the five-day trip that took them into Virginia, and although they did not come home with any victories, they showed some real play against their opponents.

Victories in the first two games they played after their return from Virginia again put the Quakers on the top rung of the Conference ladder, though they shared the lead this time with Lenoir-Rhyne. Both victories were on Guilford's court, one over High Point and the other over Appalachian. With their next game, however, the Quakers met with an unlucky jinx that persistently dogged their trail until the final game of the season.

Captain Jamieson, playing his fourth season for the Quakers, again displayed

*Teams on this year's

his ability as a floor man at center and finished his basketball career in good form, despite the fact that he had to play almost the entire season with a broken hand. Purnell and Milner at forward proved themselves to be the big scoring factors in this year's outfit and both of them gave excellent accounts of themselves all season. Parker, a Sophomore guard who was playing his first year as a varsity man, and Weston, a former Guilford High player who got his first taste of college basketball this season both displayed outstanding ability on the floor and came in for their share of the baskets as well. Newman at forward and Griffin at guard both showed ability and hold great promise for next season.

Although next year's team will sorely miss the services of Jamieson and Milner, who will be graduated, this season has shown that the squad contains several players of real ability. In Purnell, Newman, Weston, Parker, and Griffin, Coach Anderson will have a quintet that holds promise of showing Quaker fans some real basketball next season.

TRACK SQUAD

Track, 1933

Under the supervision of Coach Shepherd the Quaker track team this year continued the success it has enjoyed for the past four seasons. With interest in this sport increasing annually at Guilford, this year's squad was the largest ever to report for the team. Many of the good records hung up by the cinder artists of the last few seasons were surpassed.

Due to the lack of competition in the North State Conference, the team was obliged to look to Virginia for most of its meets. Meets were exchanged with Lynchburg College, their team being met both at home and in Virginia. Hampton-Sydney, Emory and Henry, and Wake Forest were the guests of the Quakers on Hobbs Field. The schedule also included the state meet at Chapel Hill.

Among the letter men returning to the squad were Captain Frank Allen in the 220-yard, 440-yard, low hurdles, and broad jump; Wendall Newlin in the mile and two-mile; M. Tonge in the 440-yard, 880-yard, and pole vault; Henty Turner in the 100-yard, 220-yard, broad jump and high jump; M. Budd in the mile and two-mile; C. Biddle in the broad jump, high jump, and pole vault; G. Wilkie in the broad jump, high jump, high hurdles, and weights; and M. Bridger in the high jump.

In addition to these, Coach Shepard found plenty of additional material to round out his team from other old men and a host of newcomers, among whom are: C. Swaim, G. Hardin, R. Venable, L. Coble, N. Reynolds, E. Shaen, B. Gouger, F. Newman, P. Bouton, J. Norman, E. White, E. Meibohm, W. Pittendreigh, R. Whitlock, J. Burgwyn, and C. Streb.

Tennis, 1933

With the return of four letter men, the Quaker net team has excellent chances of maintaining its position as Little Seven Champions which it has held for the past two years.

The loss of Braxton, North State Singles Champion and number one man, will be greatly felt, but the veterans Parsons, Milner, Lindley, and Williams are expected to come through in great style.

Last year's schedule, which included more than a dozen matches against four of the Little Seven Colleges and larger institutions in this state and Virginia, was completed with only two losses, to V. P. I. and Roanoke. A noteworthy victory over Wake Forest was eked out, 5-4.

At the North State Tournament, held at Appalachian State Normal on April 29-30, Guilford took all honors. Braxton won the singles championship for the second successive year, defeating Johnston, of Elon, in the finals, while Lindley and Milner advanced to the second round, and semi-finals, respectively. Parsons and Williams annexed the doubles crown, defeating Moretz and Moretz, of Lenoir-Rhyne in the finals.

Additional interest is being shown in tennis

this year, and a close fight is expected to be waged for positions on the team. A fall tournament revealed several new men of promising ability.

This year's schedule includes eight conference meets with the likelihood of several Big Five matches, and a contemplated tour through South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida during the Spring Holidays. The Quaker netmen will also enter the North State tournament, to be held at Catawba during the early part of May.

Baseball, 1933

Due to the failure of several of last year's veterans to return to school, Coach Anderson's baseball squad finds itself weak in several positions, especially on the mound. Bill Durham, mainstay of last year's hurling corps, will be missed as will also Dave Griffin, star southpaw. The pitching staff will be built around Nelson, Purnell and Rasely, of last year's squad, and Weston, a freshman, who will also probably see action. The return of Captain Webster has also helped to bolster the battery department. He will probably be aided behind the bat by Riley, a promising freshman.

In the infield, the second base position is vacant due to the loss of hard-hitting Johnny Pratt. Three lettermen are back in the infield, however, Finch at first, Martin at shortstop and Parker at third. Several new men are candidates for the second base gap and will probably give the veterans a fight for their positions. Prominent among them are Perry and Mackie, both of whom are freshmen.

Coach Anderson will be faced with the task of filling two outfield positions since only Ted Griffin of last year's team is in school. Several prospects are in view but it is not known at present just which stand the best chance of landing the outfield berths.

The Quakers face a stiff schedule of eighteen games this year. They meet every team in the North State Conference and several teams outside the Conference, among which are Duke University and the Paris Island Marines.

Tennis

Since there is no intercollegiate competition in women's athletics at Guilford, much interest is shown in all inter-mural contests. Tennis is one of the outstanding sports for this sort of competition. Each year tournaments serve to select from the student body the singles champion of the school and the two players who excell in doubles play.

The women then pair off into mixed doubles tournaments and so secure opportunity to see a great amount of actual tournament play each season. There is usually an award for the winners in each tournament.

All women are eligible for these contests, and tennis probably has a greater following than any other sport in which the women of the college participate.

Women's Athletics

Shouts on the Hockey field! . . . "Thud!" . . . "Soccer" through the goal! . . . "Tap, tap, step!" . . . The dance . . . The clatter of feet on the old gym floor after an elusive ball! . . . "Fling!" and over the net she goes! . . . "Crack!" A homer! . . . Soft music and—the Queen of the May! . . .

All these speak of development—in mind and in body. Without physical education—but what college would be without an athletic program?

In a varied physical education program, under the capable direction of Mrs. John P. Anderson, each and every Quakerette has a chance to enjoy the cultivation of grace as well as a chance to learn many types of interesting sports. Many of these forms of recreation, such as tennis, golf, and hiking, may be continued long after college days are over.

So as to create a greater interest in athletics the Women's Athletic Association was formed in the year 1928. This organization has become a vital part of the women's physical education department. The purpose of the Association as stated in its constitution is: "To promote constantly and consistently health standards among the women of Guilford College by fostering an interest in Physical Education, and to help provide ways and means of carrying on the work."

Participation in athletics is encouraged by the point system which arranges for the awarding of numerals, letters, stars, and loving cups. The various sports included for points are: Hockey, baseball, basketball, tennis, golf, hiking, track, archery, volley ball, and soccer.

No intercollegiate contests, but does the Quaker lass show her spirit in class matches!

Mid-Term Dances "Infernal" Success

The mid-term dances, sponsored by the Student Volunteer Association, have made their successful debut at Guilford. Raw! Raw! In fact, the success was so immediate that Dr. Binford announced that classes would be discontinued for a week that every one might enjoy himself to the fullest extent.

The plan of decoration was quite novel and interesting. The Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, under the direction of Professor Furnas, resembled Dante's Inferno done in red, with Dean Milner and Miss Gilbert in the receiving line. Shaded red lights gave forth a lurid glare, while brimstone confetti sizzled down constantly during the no-breaks. In the corner the professors kept a bonfire fed by dissertations of their darling students, crackling wickedly in time to the saxophonic moanings of Mr. Haworth's "Syncopating Satans' Orchestra." Mr. Suiter was contesting for originality honors with his devil's suit of red flannel "sleep-ins" matched by a diabolical cut in an ecstatic Van Dyke. Dr. Perisho was conspicuous among those present for his ecstatic grin, which made known to all present that the brimstone was of the best geological quality.

Downstairs the postoffice became the barroom for the convenience of the faculty whose devil costumes did not permit them to "tote their own." The president's office became the abode of those members of the Y. W. C. A. who do not dance and was made a crapshooters' rendezvous.

Noted in the "line" were Mrs. Elwood C. Perisho who was ravishing in her frock of eggshell satin and Mrs. Milner who was charming in her frock of "flaming youth red." Dr. Binford wore novel red edgings on his tux coat and a dashing red stripe on his shirt.

The average student may get a kick out of getting a box from home, but there's nothing more thrilling than opening the old laundry bag to see what's left.

His Mother: "Yes, dear; but they won't like it."

It has been said of old that there are three classes of women: the intelligent, the beautiful—and the majority.

The scene was the Philosophy of Religion Class on Monday morning. Bill Edgerton had just been requested to give Harkness' position on the problem of suffering.

Bill: "I don't know, sir."

Dean Milner: "Mr. Mears, will you tell the class?"

Bob Mears: "Unprepared, sir."

The Dean: "Samra Smith."

Samra: "I don't quite remember."

The Dean (once more): "Mr. Jones."

Carl: "I don't believe I can add anything to what has already been said."
